MAY & JUNE MEETINGS

Our May meeting will include a presentation by Julie Sharp from U.W. – Marshfield Campus, speaking to us on Amish Quilt Making. Julie brings the message that Amish make their quilts to incorporate their life experiences, thereby telling a story, usually about their families. Julie will also talk about how current trends in color and style are also conveyed through their quilts. Presentation will start at 7:00 p.m. downstairs in the Beebe Forum Room of the Marshfield Public Library, with the meeting to follow and election of officers.

For our June meeting we will be attending the “first ever” International Virtual Genealogy Conference via Family History Radio. The eGen Conference via the Internet will take place at the Marshfield Public Library. Mary Adler, Adult Services Librarian, will guide us through the site and many sessions available. Workshops are grouped into the following: Topics of the United States, Genealogy Technology, Supportive Areas, European Presentations, Repositories, Research Methodology, and a group of topics Just for Beginners. Each grouping contains 6-10 mini-workshops, each lasting approximately 30 minutes or more. Presentation will start about 7:00 p.m. in the General Meeting Room, with no formal business meeting being scheduled.

The Library has subscribed to this conference, so please stop in anytime during library hours and go to Computer #12 to see what's available. There is also a binder located by that computer containing all of the handouts that go along with the sessions. This subscription will be good only until August 10. This is one of your best opportunities to attend an International Genealogy Conference without doing a lot of travel. Have fun and learn a lot.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Members of MAGG,

As this is my last message as your president, I wanted to leave you with some words of wisdom and most importantly a challenge. First, the words of wisdom...Never put off contacting that elderly member of the family, they may be gone tomorrow. Don't just pile the research in stacks hoping to file it sometime, you may lose it or forget what you found and end up researching it again. Reply to the letters or e-mails you receive right away, putting them on your "to do" stack is a good way to forget about them. Don't be afraid of using the computer and Internet, with so many records now on-line...you can do research without even leaving your home or the local library.

And now, the challenge...Attend at least one genealogy conference this coming year. Learn new things, attend workshops or seminars, find out about some new way of researching or organizing your collection of materials. Grab a friend and go together. Sharing ideas and problem-solving together is a great way to climb over that "brick wall". Finally, make a commitment to attend your local genealogy meetings on a regular basis. Your officers and program director work hard to provide good programs for you. If you have program ideas on what could help your research more, contact them...they're always looking for suggestions.

Finally, thanks for two great years, as your president. I've enjoyed the meetings, conferences and road trips with you. Keep up the great work.

Sincerely,

Vickie Schnitzler

MAGG President

WISCONSIN NAME INDEX

Reprinted from UpFront with NGS
The On-line Newsletter of the National Genealogy Society
Volume 2, Number 6 — 15 March 2003

Co-editors: Dennis and Carla Ridenour

The Wisconsin Historical Society has announced its Wisconsin Name Index, a new On-line tool to help genealogists research their Wisconsin ancestors.

The Wisconsin Name Index leads to more than 100,000 obituaries, personal sketches, and other short biographies of Wisconsin people. These texts originally appeared in 150 county and local histories, dozens of professional directories and biographical encyclopedias, more than 60 scrapbooks containing 30,000 obituaries, and in Wisconsin magazines and newspapers. Thousands include portraits and other illustrations. Users can search the database with a last name, first name, maiden name, time frame, and various other details. Photocopies of biographical sketches, articles, and obituaries can all be ordered on-line through our on-line genealogical research service.

The name index was created not by amateurs but by professional librarians at the State Historical Society. Starting about 1870, staff members made a catalog card for every biographical sketch in each new Wisconsin history. They made a similar card for every obituary added to the scrapbooks they called "Wisconsin Necrology," and frequently added cards for magazines and newspaper articles about Wisconsin residents. After more than a century of such work, the data on the original cards was typed into a database and the Wisconsin Name Index was born.

The Wisconsin Name Index is available at <http://www.wisconsinhistory.org/wni>

COMPUTER CORNER

National Archive's Access to the Archives Databases at <www.archives.gov/add> "Now, people can pull these electronic records at their own convenience," said Michael Carlson, electronic and special media records director for the archives/. "It's totally self-service from you desktop." The records available on the database system represent a small fraction of the archive's electronic holdings...mostly deal with information that easily can be looked based on specific name, dates, organizations, cities or states. Thanks to Jonnie Bender.

1906 Canadian Census is available at last— The Canadian government has just agreed after a 5-year court battle to release the 1906 Census of Canada. This is a major breakthrough for genealogists as these records and all records subsequent to these had been sealed and were to be sealed forever. Subsequent to the announcement of Ministers Rock and Copps regarding the immediate release of the 1906 Census of the Western Provinces, Ian Wilson, National Archivist has announced that those records are now assessable on-line. You may access them at: <http://www.archives.ca/02/020153_e.html> and <http://www.archives.ca/02/020153_f.html>. This special census was only conducted in the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Searching for Living Cousins — Pat Lamont from Fox Valley Genealogical Society listed the following websites to try when you know the name of a cousin but have lost contact or have no current address: <switchboard.com> <iaf.net> (internet@address.finder) <searchbigfoot.com> <whowherelycos.com> <peopleyahoo.com>

You can usually find an address and phone number on the above and some will locate as e-mail address as well. Pat has tried all those above with success but she uses <switchboard.com> and <peopleyahoo.com> the most. Thanks Pat!! (from Genealogical Gems, Summer 2002, Vol. 21, No. 1.)

Summer Genealogy Trips: Let's go find the Ancestors

Before you leave on that trip to find the relatives, prepare, prepare, prepare.

- Call all of the offices, libraries, historical societies, cemeteries, and relatives that you plan to visit. Do not assume that last years hours will be the same for this year.
- Do they have any type of handout that you could receive by mail or is there a web site you can review?
- Organize your material, don't expect that a staff person should watch you sort through your briefcase for that one piece of paper that you know is there somewhere.
- Bring your information with you. That pedigree isn't going to do you any good on the desk or on your computer at home, if you have left your information in the car, go back and get it. However, a descendency chart has more information than you need. You are looking for you ancestors in most cases, not your second cousins children. If you forgot your information at home, ask the staff person if they have a blank pedigree form and fill it out, having a staff member fill it out for you is not a wise use of time. They are your relatives, you know them best.
- What type of copying facilities are there? Coin operated, debit card, do they make change in the building. What is the largest bill that change will be made for?
- Lunch hours: does the office or department close, for how long?
- Parking: availability, time limits, costs, ramp nearby? Map?
- May I bring in my lap top computer, may I use a camera?

HISTORICAL SOCIETIES

They can be a great resource, especially if you don't live in the area. They come in all shapes and sizes; national, state, county, city, town and groups specific to certain ethnicities. According to a recent listing, there are some 4500 historical societies in the US and nearly 800 in Canada. Some state historical societies double as state archives as in Wisconsin.

To find a historical society, you can visit <www.daddezio.com/society> for a listing of historical societies, arranged by state. You'll also find town and county societies. If a society has a web page, you'll find info on its holdings. Many sites offer you a chance to submit a research request online for a fee. Consider becoming a member of the society that is most meaningful to your research. (from the Family Chronicle, March/April 2003, via Pedigree Pointers, Stevens Point Area Gen. Soc. Newsletter, Vol. 25, No. 3, Spring, 2003, p. 33.)

GENEALOGIST'S CODE OF ETHICS

1. That I will treat with the greatest care and respect all public records and library books which may be available for my use.
2. That I will speak with courtesy to all employees of a vital record office, or of a public library, when requesting to see any vital records or library books. I shall express my thanks to the person attending to my request.
3. That I will not tear, erase, mark or remove any public record or Library book and will refrain from mutilating, defacing or otherwise destroying any part of such public record or library book.
4. That when I have finished viewing any public record or library book, I will return it to the proper or designated place.

List of Soldiers Buried Here

This issue of the Tribune being the last before Memorial Day, it was suggested that we publish a list of all soldiers buried here. The suggestion was a good one; it being fitting that the list be published at this time.

Considerable time and effort was spent compiling the list. It was prepared by L. A. Allen and F. W. Kluhsman. Mr. Ira Clouse, President of the Loyal Cemetery Association brought it to the Tribune last Saturday and suggested its publication.

Attention of our readers is called to the fact that the name of a nurse is included in the list of soldiers.

The names of the soldiers buried here and companies they were members of are as follows:

* * * * *

The Family is like a book, the children are the leaves. The parents are the cover that protective beauty gives. At first the pages of the book are blank and purely fair; but time soon writes its memories, and paints its pictures there. Love is the little golden clasp that bindeth up the trust. Oh, break it not, lest all the leaves shall scatter and be lost.

MEETING DATES:

Thursday, May 22, 2003..... Our May meeting will include a presentation by Julie Tharp from U.W. – Marshfield Campus, speaking to us on Amish Quilt Making. Julie brings the message that the Amish make their quilts to incorporate their life experiences, thereby telling a story, usually about their families. Presentation will start at 7:00 p.m. downstairs in the Beebee Forum Room with the meeting to follow and election of officers.

Thursday, June 19, 2003..... Trip to the Family History Center and the Marathon County Historical Museum in Wausau, WI. Group will leave the Northway Mall parking lot at 11:00 a.m. with return around 9 p.m.

Thursday, June 26, 2003..... We will be attending the “first ever” International Virtual Genealogy Conference via Family History Radio. The eGen Conference via the Internet will take place at the Marshfield Public Library. Mary Adler, Adult Services Librarian, will guide us through the site and sessions available. Presentation will start about 7:00 p.m. in the General Meeting Room, with no formal business meeting being scheduled.

Thursday, July 17, 2003..... Trip to the Wisconsin State Historical Library in Madison, WI. Group will leave the Northway Mall parking lot at 6 a.m. with return scheduled around 9 p.m.

Thursday, August 14, 2003..... Trip to Manitowoc County/Two Rivers, WI. Group will be leaving the Northway Mall parking lot at 6 a.m. with return scheduled around 11 p.m.
