SEPTEMBER AND OCTOBER MEETINGS

The September 24th meeting will feature Bette Adler, a long time resident of the city of Marshfield. Bette's presentation will be on "The Wisconsin Sesquicentennial and Old Marshfield." The Adler family had a very important part in the shaping of Marshfield in the areas of movies, theaters, and even architecture. Come listen to Bette's presentation in Room LL-207 of the Marshfield Clinic promptly at 7:00 p.m. There will be a very important business meeting regarding by-law changes and policies immediately following the presentation. If unable to attend, please contact any of the officers with your views on the by-law changes. A copy of the current by-laws was in the last issue of Kith and Kin. Hope to see you all there.

The October 22nd meeting will also be at the Marshfield Clinic in Room LL-207. Sally Winkel, author of the local book "Old School Houses", will be sharing some of the information she has found in researching and putting together her book. The presentation starts at 7:00 p.m. with a short business meeting to follow.

PEDIGREE CHART AND SURNAME INDEX UPDATE

Due to computer problems the new update is not yet finished. So, if anyone has any final additions that they would like included in the update please get them to Vickie Schnitzler as by September 30th or bring along to the meeting on September 24th. Please list any additional surnames on a sheet of paper with your name, address and phone number. If you have additions to a pedigree chart, please fill out a new chart and submit. The finished update (should ?) be available by the October meeting.

THE MARSHFIELD STORY - PART II IS UNDERWAY

Four years ago as the committee for the History Project first met, little did we realize what we were about to start. We hoped to put together a good compilation of the history of Marshfield into a publication that we hoped to be at least 240 pages. We hoped to print maybe 1,000 to 1,500 copies. Well, to date, the first book (totaling 556 pages), has sold more than 3,200 copies.

We have had many families contact us on the excellent job we did, but were disappointed that we did not include anything on their family. Unfortunately, the only way to insure that your family's story would have been included was to write a story and submit it, including pictures if you so desired. But.....

You now have a second chance, if you missed including your family in the first book. The Marshfield Story: Part II is in the process of being put together. This will be your last chance to be included in this grouping of stories about the businesses and people of Marshfield. Deadline for submitting stories is January 31, 1999.

For story guidelines, further information or to reserve space for your story in the next Marshfield History Book, call Don or Vickie Schnitzler at (715) 387-4044. Mail stories to: The Marshfield History Project, P.O. Box 914, Marshfield, WI 54449.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Members:

In place of an August meeting, eight members traveled to Madison on August 13th. We all did research at the State Historical Library. Many of us found lots of new goodies to add to our Genealogy.

I hope that many of you attended the Central Wisconsin State Fair here in Marshfield on September 2 -7, and viewed the Wood County Sesquicentennial exhibit. It included individual displays from many of the townships in Wood County as well as displays on the logging and railroad history of the county.

We have some good programs coming up. Bette Adler will share some stories of old Marshfield at our September meeting. Sally Winkel will talk about her book on "Old School Houses" of the area in October. So I hope to see a lot of you at our meetings.

As Always,

Lorraine Markee

PERiodical Source Index (PERSI)

By Alan E. Mann

The following information is excerpted from an internet article called Computer Genealogist - New Technology for Genealogy

A newly released CD-ROM and Internet search site have greatly increased the usefulness of a major tool in genealogical research. For many years, an index to periodical articles has been published by the Allen County Public Library (of Fort Wayne, IN). To use these indexes, roots seekers had to visit a library which had the collection of volumes (published annually), and search separate volumes of indexes to find articles published about families or localities which they were researching. The new CD-ROM and Internet site make the entire collection of volumes available in the home and allow researchers to search all volumes with a single search.

What is PERSI?

An acronym for the PERiodical Source Index, which is an index to articles published in most genealogy and local history periodicals written in English (and some French-Canadian) since 1800. The purpose of the index is to help researchers find articles about their family or which may help further their research....How can you know if an article has been published on your family? PERSI is the tool to answer that question.

What does PERSI contain?

Each PERSI entry give the title of the article, name of the periodical, volume and issue number in which the article appeared, the date it was published, and a PERSI reference code. The code refers to an appendix, which gives information on the periodical, including general topic and area, title changes, frequency of publication, publisher name and address, current subscription price (if still published), list of major libraries that have the periodical in their collection and other bibliographic info.

PERSI does not contain the actual article. Once you know when and where the article appeared, you can visit a library to read the actual article. If your local library does not have the magazine, you can order a copy from Allen County Public Library (for a reasonable fee) or request it by Inter-Library loan from a local public library.

Topics of articles include bible records, probates, family histories, farms or estates, obituaries, Revolutionary War soldiers, and nearly all types of records in the U.S. The electronic versions of PERSI allow you to search in five different ways—by name, U.S. locality, Canadian locality, International locality, or methodology type.

PERSI's search process is FOLIO-based (a local indexing company), which allows you to search for any word in the title of any article and combine search terms. Results appear in a summary format that helps you know how many times each search word appears in PERSI, and how many times two or more of the requested words are found in the same article.

A single CD-ROM contains the whole index. When you find an article, you click on the PERSI code and it displays the full bibliographic information about the periodical, including a list of a few libraries that have it available. The suggested retail price is $99.95 and is available from the publisher, Ancestry, Inc. (801-426-3500)

PERSI can be accessed over the Internet at Ancestry's Web site using www.ancestry.com. Ancestry offers full access to PERSI only upon subscription to the Ancestry Internet Library, which costs $4.95 per month. You also get access to over 200 genealogy data bases.

The author, Alan E. Mann, A.G. is manager of the Family History Library's Automated Resource Center. Send comments or suggestions by e-mail to alanm@credible.com.

CHURCH RECORDS

If you have Swedish ancestors and want to know what records might exist for them, one place you might consider contacting is the House of Emigrants. The House of Emigrants will search the Swedish Church Records—the primary census rolls—and tell you what it finds. For a copy of the request form contact: The House of Emigrants, Box 301, S0351 04 Vaxjo, Sweden.

Lutheran Ancestors—
Concordia Institute Department of Archives and History, 801 DeMun, St. Louis, MO 63103, are extremely helpful in locating Lutheran ancestors in the U.S. They are able to help in locating which churches are located and functioning in a particular area and where records of a defunct church are located. They have records of Lutheran Churches in America but their main interest is the Missouri Synod Church.
